The image shows a handwriting practice sheet. At the top left, there are two boxes: a green one containing the letter 'o' and an orange one containing the letter 'n'. A green vertical line connects the bottom of the 'o' box to the top of a pink box containing the word 'on'. An orange arrow points from the bottom of the 'n' box to the same pink box. To the right of these boxes is a row of seven words: 'on on on on on on on'. Below this row is a larger pink box containing the word 'on'. To the right of this pink box is another row of two words: 'on on'.

A handwriting practice sheet for the word 'ol'. At the top left, two letters are shown: 'o' in a green box and 'l' in an orange box. A green arrow points from 'o' to a pink box containing 'ol'. Another orange arrow points from 'l' to the same pink box. Below this, the word 'ol' is written twice in a dotted font for tracing. At the bottom, there is a large pink box containing 'ol' for tracing, followed by a row of five empty dotted boxes for independent writing practice.

This image shows a tracing exercise for the word "no". At the top, the letters "n" and "o" are shown separately in boxes, with arrows indicating the direction of strokes: a vertical line down for "n" and a counter-clockwise circle for "o". Below this, the word "no" is written twice in a large, dashed font for tracing practice. A pink box highlights the first "no", and a green box highlights the second "no".
